1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 46 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by, and claims 47-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over, Van Laarhoven (US 4,949,550).

Figures 2 and 3 in the reference shows a microelectronic substrate assembly comprising a substrate (10), a first layer (2), a second layer (3) and a third layer (5). The first layer (2) is silicon nitride (column 6, line 40), the second layer (3) is silicon dioxide (column 6, lines 36-37), and the third layer (5) is resist (column 6, line 39). The silicon nitride and silicon dioxide layers are inherently different colors because of their different materials. The reference does not disclose the color or transparency of the resist; those in the art could choose any known and available resist for the resist in such a structure. The instant disclosure and claims do not present the choice of resist as in anyway critical to the structure; not that claims 47-51 differ from each other in the choice of resist.

What is being claimed is a structure. As set forth above, the reference shows the claimed structure. The claims include intended use language which is non-limiting of the claimed structure. However, the art does appear to show this intended use. The reference discusses the use of such a structure in a planarizing process (column 6, line 39). The first layer (2) is disclosed as "an etch stop layer" (column 6, lines 40-41), thus it provides a "surface defining a desired endpoint elevation for a planarizing cycle." The resist layer is in such a structure intended to be removed before the completion of the device, and thus is "sacrificial".
